Market Update

Markets rebounded in July, with the S&P 500 up 9.22%. Despite CPI exceeding expectations again and the Fed raising rates by another 0.75%, investors began to look through the current slowdown in anticipation of lower inflation rates and a more balanced Fed. Yield on the 10-Year US Treasury fell to 2.65%. Energy and most other commodity prices declined, as WTI oil dropped below $100/barrel. Growth stocks led the rebound, with Cons. Discretionary and Technology outperforming. More defensive sectors (Telecom, Health Care, Cons. Staples) posted the smallest gains. Credit markets also saw significant improvement, high yield spreads narrowed by over 100 basis points.

SSI's Convertible Investment Strategy generated a gain of approximately 5.34% (gross of fee), which trailed the 5.69% return of the ICE BofA All US Convertible Index (VXA0), with all sectors posting positive returns. There is a strong case for an allocation to convertible bonds over the long-term; however, the current environment provides a unique tactical opportunity set due to the recent market selloff. According to BofA Global Research, the median rebound from the bottoms of the top 5 largest drawdowns in the US convertible market was 48.4%⁵ over the next 12 months. Convertibles offer solid participation in equity markets with convexity provided by the downside protection of bonds. It is an ideal asset class for investors seeking growth with capital preservation as well as income and a low duration profile.

The Composite & Benchmark (Description & Material Risks)

The Convertible Investment Strategy (composite inception date January 1, 1983; composite created January 1983) invests in convertible bonds and convertible preferred stocks, and do not have credit quality restrictions. The Strategy may hold 144A securities. The composite contains fully discretionary accounts including those no longer with the firm. SSI believes a performance comparison versus the ICE BofA All Convertibles Index (the "VXA0") is appropriate (as of January 1, 2005). The VXA0 measures the return of all U.S. convertibles. SSI does not hold all convertibles in the VXA0 and may also hold convertibles that are not included in the VXA0. The Strategy is less diversified than the VXA0. The volatility of this strategy may be greater than the volatility of the VXA0 as the strategy holds a smaller number of positions than the Index. The return, if any, above the VXA0 is dependent upon SSI's discretionary management. Prior to 2005 the Credit Suisse First Boston ("CSFB") Convertible Bond Index was used. As of December 31, 2004, CSFB discontinued their index and the VXA0 was used. Any other indices shown are not necessarily comparable to SSI's Convertible Investment Strategy. These are widely recognized market indices that are shown for informational purposes only. The composite name was formally known as SSI Outright Discretionary Convertible Strategy from 1/1/1983 – 3/31/2016 and on 4/1/2016 the new composite name became the SSI Convertible Investment Strategy.

Use of Leverage, Derivatives, and Shorts

The strategy may invest in synthetic convertible bonds and convertible preferred securities. Synthetic convertible securities are generally issued through an investment bank and may provide exposure to the credit of the bank while being linked to the equity upside of an entity we select, that is generally not connected with the bank. The synthetic convertible securities we employ do not generally involve the use of leverage and generally do not provide leveraged exposure.

Investment Management Fees

Returns are presented gross and/or net of management fee. Actual results of an individual account may be materially different from the performance shown herein because of differences in inception date, transaction and related costs, investment guideline restrictions, fees and other factors. All performance is based in U.S. dollars and reflect, on a percentage basis for each of the periods indicated: (a) the net increase (decrease) of all SSI Convertible Investment Strategy portfolios, asset-weighted, including adjustments for unrealized gains and losses, the reinvestment of dividends and other earnings, the deduction of investment costs except any separate custodial or related fees, time-weighted to adjust for additions and withdrawals, and (b) the net increase (decrease) of the VXA0.

Net performance is reduced by SSI's actual investment management fees. Gross performance does not include deduction of SSI's investment management fees.

If performance is gross of management fees, client's actual return will be reduced by the management fees and any other expenses which may be incurred in the management of an investment advisory account. See SSI's Form ADV, Part 2A for a complete description of the investment advisory fees customarily charged by SSI. As an example, an account with an initial $1,000,000 investment on January 1, 2022, earning a recurring 5% semi-annual gross return (10.25% annualized), and paying a .5% semi-annual management fee (1% annual fee) would have grown to $1,340,096 on a gross of fees basis and $1,300,392 on a net of fees basis by December 31, 2024 (3 years).
